

CZAR'S ARMY PURSUES RETREATING AUSTRIANS

Fan-Like Russian Advance
Is Still Sweeping Across
Galicia, Says Petrograd.

Petrograd, Sept. 30.—The Russian government has just issued this statement:

"In the woods near Argutov our troops are successfully advancing, keeping up a running fight with the enemy. Near Osovietz, on the morning of Sept. 27, the fire of the enemy's big caliber guns reached considerable intensity. The attempt of the German infantry to get close to the fortress was checked. In Silesia the enemy has been considerably strengthened and is manifesting great activity. The Austrian sorties from Przemyśl remain unsuccessful. In the retreating Austrian army considerable disorganization is noticeable, units being broken and mixed up. We continue taking prisoners in large numbers as well as capturing guns and war material of every description."

The fan-like Russian advance is still sweeping across Galicia, closing in and forcing the Austrians through the passes of the Carpathians and into the plains of Hungary. An official communication issued at Budapest admits that the Russians have succeeded in crossing the Hungarian frontier at several points in the Ung district despite the fact that reinforcements have been sent against them. Ung is a county in the northeastern part of Hungary.

The Russians have obtained a good foothold on Hungarian soil, having crossed the frontier in the Ungvar district in considerable strength. On the plains in front of the Muscovites find their main obstacle to be the River Theiss, which is flanked by marshes. It is believed there are no forts on the plain, but possible fortifications have been thrown up. A Zeppelin balloon caused consternation at Bialystok, to the southwest of Grodno, 60 miles inside the Russian frontier. This dirigible was more fortunate in getting away than was her sister ship, which was shot down in the neighborhood of Warsaw the day before.

BERLIN CLAIMS GAINS

SAYS MILITARY OPERATIONS IN FRANCE HAS SETTLED DOWN TO ARTILLERY DUEL.

Berlin, via The Hague, Sept. 30.—The war office, in its latest official statement, stated the operations in France have settled down to a general artillery duel interspersed with frequent assaults at the vital points along the line.

"While the fighting is general," the report says, "it is not apparent at any point of the line of battle that the conflict has entered into deciding stages. The German right has been subject to severe pressure, but every attempt to penetrate it has been repelled with great loss to the enemy. On the center there has been no decided change for nearly a week, while on the left the fighting continues. Our forces continue to make gains along the lines of the Meuse."

Of Russian operations the war office reports: "The fortress of Przemyśl holds out against all attempts on the part of the enemy to take it, and in a series of successful sorties the garrison has inflicted great damage on the enemy. In one of these sorties it is reported the garrison managed to disable two of the main Russian siege guns, whose fire was damaging the outer walls of the fortress."

PRINTER IS ARRESTED

OHIOAN IS CHARGED WITH HAV-ING IN HIS POSSESSION ILLE-GAL READING MATTER

Warren, O., Sept. 30.—Harry Marlow, printer and well known in Democratic circles here, is under arrest on a charge of having in his possession a large amount of illegal reading matter. County and local police have seized more than 12,000 copies of pamphlets written and published by a former resident of Columbiana county. The pamphlets attack the character and integrity of Judge C. M. Wilkins of Warren, Judges Metcalf, Pollock and Norris of the court of appeals, Supt. C. H. Eymann of the Massillon state hospital and W. S. Potts, an editor of Lisbon.

Man Is Injured in Auto Wreck.
Fremont, O., Sept. 30.—Stahl Smith, Logan, O., merchant, had his collarbone broken, hip dislocated and suffered internal injuries when his automobile went into a ditch and turned over at a sharp curve in the road east of Fremont.

Business Man's Home Burns.
Chardon, O., Sept. 30.—The residence of C. P. Patchin, business man at Middlefield, was burned as the family was at breakfast. As the village has no fire protection, the loss was total. Defective wires caused the blaze.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 30.—Dynamite left by a careless miner in coal delivered at the home of Hermann Sauer exploded as 14-year-old Florence Sauer was filling a bucket with fuel, her right hand being mutilated and shattered.

ALLIED ARMY MAKES FURTHER PROGRESS

Germans Defeated at Every Point of Contact, Says
French Report.

TEUTONS' ATTACKS REPULSED

Climax of the Great Battle, in Which
Thousands of Warriors on Both Sides Have Been Killed and Wounded, Appears
Near at Hand

Paris, Sept. 30.—The Germans were defeated at every point of contact Tuesday and the allies were able to make further appreciable progress. In a desperate effort to break through the allies' left, repeated counter attacks were directed by the German right wing against the British and French, but each was repulsed. Between the Heights of Albert and Comblès the allies have pushed forward until the enemy operating to the north of the main fighting line has been forced back to within 45 miles of the Belgian frontier. On the right bank of the Meuse, the French, by successive and vigorous attacks, have regained all they lost when the Germans made their raid across the Meuse and succeeded in securing a foothold on the lower heights of the Meuse.

One unofficial report received from the north was that the German right has been in full retreat since Sept. 28, and that Gen. Von Kluck had made an offer to surrender to Gen. Joffre on condition that the German troops be allowed to return to Germany with their arms, they agreeing not to take up arms again during the war. This report had it that Gen. Joffre, in reply to the report, had ordered the shelling of the enemy's position and that the next day the German right wing army was in full retreat, pursued by the allies. The report added that the pursuers were using rapid-fire guns mounted on armored automobiles. No confirmation of this report is obtainable in official circles. The war office, in its midnight official statement, ignores it, confining itself to the declaration that "there is nothing new in the situation."

Climax of Battle Nears.
The climax of the great battle, which is now in its 18th day, appears near at hand. The French and British troops, especially on the French left, have begun driving home the finishing blows in anticipation of a supreme effort which it is believed the Germans will make before finally abandoning the advantage that still remains to them after their enforced withdrawal from in front of Paris. All indications are that, with the conflict in which hundreds of thousands have been killed and wounded drawing to its close, the ultimate victory will rest with the allies. It is confidently predicted in Paris that the Germans either will have to surrender their right wing army or trust it to a hazardous retreat over lines which already are threatened at several points by the allies.

Final Test of Strength.
That the final test of strength is but a question of hours is indicated by the reticence of the French war office, which is confining itself to meager general statements which give no hint of the gigantic movement, now believed to be in progress, to dislodge the invaders from their positions. Night and day the Germans have been making vigorous attempts to pierce the constantly tightening lines of British and French, who are effectively smothering Gen. Von Kluck in what appears to be an inextinguishable position. Not only is Gen. Von Kluck threatened, but also the reinforcing army of Gen. Von Boehm, while Gen. Von Buelow is declared to be in grave danger in his position on the right center of the German line. In Champagne, on the center, and in the region as far east as the forest of Argonne, fierce cannonading was resumed by the enemy Tuesday. East of the Argonne, toward the Meuse, the enemy occupied strongly fortified positions and but slight progress was reported by the French commanders.

Why Not Publish It?

Description of Allies' Lines.
The French war office Tuesday issued a revised description of the allies' line, which now extends to the westward through the region of Pont-a-Mousson, through Apremont to the direction of the Meuse, where it passes through the region of St. Mihiel. It then traverses the heights north of Spada and a portion of the heights of the Meuse to the southeast of Verdun. From Verdun toward Rheims the line intersects the region of Varennes, passes to the north of Soissons, and then along the Roman roadway through the Rheims outposts, thence to Berry au Bac and to the heights of Chemins Des Dames. Following the right bank of the Aisne the line draws near to that river and continues to the region of Soissons and thence in the direction of the forest of Laigle, along the first plateau on the right bank of the Aisne. Crossing the Oise river and between that and the River Somme the front is defined roughly by a line drawn from Ribecourt, occupied by the French to Lassigny, in possession of the enemy, thence to Roye, a French position, and to Chaumes, still occupied by the Germans. This line has been further extended by the success of the troops operating in the north, who have succeeded in gaining the plateau between the heights of Albert and Comblès.

FORMER FROM POSITION.

New York, Sept. 30.—It's bad to have another man win your wife, but on top of that to have your rival discharge you and then give your former wife the job—that is too much, according to Newton O. Harvey, who is suing Kelly M. Turner for $100,000 in an alienation suit. Turner formerly employed Harvey as his Canadian agent, but along about August, 1913, Harvey alleges, Turner by flattery persuaded Mrs. Harvey to quit her husband and go with him. And not only that but Mrs. Harvey got his job.

YOUTH IN THE PULPIT

CHURCH RECORDS FULL OF EX-AMPLES OF PRECOCITY.

Fourteen-Year-Old Charles Forbes,
Who Began at the Age of Nine,
Has Had Much Success—Triumphs of Girl Revivalist.

Without the slightest sign of nervousness, and with all the religious fervor and enthusiasm of one who has spent many years in the pulpit, the fourteen-year-old son of Rev. Charles Forbes, who has been conducting a mission at the Stratford tabernacle, London, England, preached a striking sermon recently.

Young Forbes began preaching at nine, and he has since toured through several American towns. Some of his sermons have been printed and published, while many more have found their way to the hearts of American working men.

Curiously enough, it was at the Stratford tabernacle that Miss Helen Coulthard, who, as "Nellie, the Child Evangelist," has touched the emotions of thousands, preached last Easter. Miss Coulthard is now twenty years of age, and when she was nine spoke in the open air at a church army meeting. Since then her "conversations" have been many. She is a sister of Miss Libby Coulthard, the fourteen-year-old mill-girl of Bolton, who has held large congregations spellbound with the eloquence and simple directness of her preaching.

Libby, like her sister, Helen, began preaching when she was nine years of age. "I love preaching," she says, "and it is very funny how sermons come to me. When I am at work in the mill a text comes into my mind and I think about it all day, and then I go home and find it in the Bible."

Readers will probably also remember the sensation created some time ago by Francis Storrs, who, as a child of thirteen, preached at a great revival meeting in Holloway hall, and afterwards delivered sermons in various parts of England.

There have been quite a number of boy preachers, notably Evan Roberts and Claude Hanbury Cooke, or "Jack" Cooke, as he was generally called, who, born in 1886, preached his first sermon at a Manchester street corner 11 years later, and conducted many successful missions in the states. Mention might also be made of Colin Livingstone, Fitz Wood and Willie Barling, the Croydon boy preacher.

As a rule the infant prodigy of the church does not fulfill the promise of earlier years, although there have been exceptions. For example, Mr. Spurgeon preached his first sermon at the age of sixteen. George Fox, the evangelist and founder of the Society of Friends, was also quite a little boy when he started preaching at a tavern; while George Whitefield and John Wesley both commenced preaching at a very early age, giving a foretaste of their quality by addressing their school-fellows.

Rather Old-Fashioned.
At a dinner the other night they were speaking of the importance of being right up to date, when Judge Clinton Grey of the New York court of appeals was reminded of the case of John Henry.

John Henry had been calling at the home of Myrtle for many months without making much headway toward matrimony, but eventually little Cupid chased him out of the bashful gloom.

"Dearest," suddenly remarked John Henry one night, going over quickly and sitting close by the side of the beautiful girl, "I intend to see your father tonight and ask him for your hand."

"You make me sigh," wearily responded the fair one. "Why will you insist on being so old-fashioned?"

"Old-fashioned?" wonderingly rejoined John Henry, "I don't get you, dearest."

"Don't go and ask him," imperiously answered dearest. "Go tell him!"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Chums in Life and in Death.

Laurence Irving, who, with his wife, perished in the Empress of Ireland disaster, had none of the conventional characteristics of an actor. He cared nothing for society and little or nothing for money. He was a man of wide culture, profound simplicity, and ready, eager sympathy.

His performance in "Typhoon" established his right to be considered one of the half dozen most competent actors on the English stage. He was always an extremely painstaking worker, and everything he did, he did in his own way. He was, indeed, a real, lovable man, the entirely worthy holder of a great name.

He and his wife, Mabel Hackney, were associated in everything, from the day of their marriage, and it is appropriate that they should have died together.

Laurence Irving was one of the few Englishmen who spoke Russian fluently.

Growth of Germany.
A century ago there was no German empire—only a number of German states whose aggregate wealth and income were probably less than those of France. Now united Germany is estimated to possess an income of nearly $10,000,000,000 and accumulated wealth of about $50,000,000,000. During the century Germany's population has grown from 24,000,000 to more than 67,000,000, or 180 per cent.

GOOD ROAD PRINCIPLES.

Some Points That Are of Paramount Importance.

Mr. Charles L. Wood, civil engineer, of Columbus, has prepared for the Board of Supervisors of Lowndes county, Mississippi, notes on the working of the public roads which are of more than local interest. He regards as of paramount importance the appointment as road commissioner or of a competent civil engineer to be in entire charge of the public road system of a county, including all bridges, culverts, ferries, canals, etc. He defines the duties of the road commissioner, advocates letting of work for road building and improvement by specific contracts after advertising for bids, and says:

"The width of roadbed will vary with the amount of traffic. For a single track road it should not be less than 12 feet, for a double-track road not less than 24 feet, including footpaths inside the ditch lines. The 'rise' or crown of the road should be about one foot. The grade should be kept under 6 per cent, or a rise of 6 feet in 100 feet.

"Work of construction should be done during the spring, summer and early fall months, and all new roadbed left in compact condition for the winter traffic. The winter's work should be limited to repairing, bridges, opening ditches and keeping the roadbed drained. Road work can be done during the summer at fully 25 per cent less than during the winter.

"A traction engine pulling a train of four to eight wagons can deliver materials much more economically than the one-mule two-wheels process usually employed. The wagons can be moved separately, if necessary, from the loading place to the road by animal power, and there into a train for long distance hauling along the road. A road scraper of six to eight-horse draft is absolutely necessary to the formation of roadbed, and a steam roller for compacting the same. An ordinary four-mule farm harrow run over a muddy road just as soon as the mud is stiff enough to bear the weight of the harrow will do wonders toward putting the road in good condition. A ditching machine is of much value also, but in lieu of this a four-mule plow may be used, supplemented by shovels. For moving earth a short distance two-mule slips should be used, for longer distances two-wheel dumps, with an extra team to load."—Manufacturers' Record.
